Marlene Dietrich Named As "Other Woman" In Case

Involved In Difficulties Of Director Von Sternberg And Ex-Wife

HALF MILLION SUM ASKED IN DAMAGES

Former Wife Of Director Also Seeks $100,000 For Claimed Libel

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 8.—Marlene Dietrich, who came to Hollywood from Germany to rise to stardom in the films, had today been named as "the other woman" in the difficulties involving her director, Josef Von Sternberg and his ex-wife.

In a special session of the domestic relations court, presided over by Judge Lester W. Roth, it was stated late yesterday that Mrs. Von Sternberg has filed two damage suits against Miss Dietrich in New York.

Demands $600,000

It was said that Mrs. Von Sternberg demands $500,000 of the German acress for alienation of affections and $100,000 for libel.

Just before the court session here came to an end Mrs. Von Sternberg attorneys presented as evidence one of the two damage suits. Soon after, Von Sterned admitted that the object of this and the other suit was Miss Dietrich.

The local hearing constituted an attempt of Mrs. Von Sternberg's attorneys have the court administer a legal spanking" to the director for having delayed alimony payments to his former wife.

The hitherto cases against Miss Dietrich were brought in when Mrs. Von Sternberg claimed that the director refused to pay the delayed alimony unless she promised to drop the case against the German star.

Demand Hearing

Von Sternberg has paid the alimony demanded, more than $10,000 but his wife demanded a contempt hearing. The matter yesterday was taken under advisement for several days.

In the libel suit, now evidence in the case, Mrs. Von Sternberg charged Miss Dietrich with saying Von Sternberg was going to divorce his wife, that she was an undutiful wife, that she neglected her marital obligations and fomented a move to

PA NEWC OBSERVES

No new detours are established in the local district, according to the Detour Bulletin for the week ending August 13, received from the Pennsylvania Highway Department today. This map will be found posted in the lobby of the News.

Almost every evening, one can sit on his front porch and be greeted by a half-dozen candidates seeking some kind of an office. They are becoming so numerous, that one wonders how all the names are going to be gotten onto the ballot.

News that the Pymatuning Dam contract is to be let around the first of September is indeed music to the ears of New Castle citizens. The completion of the project will assure an adequate water supply for industry in the Shenango Valley and will unquestionably mean a great deal to New Castle.

If the balance of August is as warm as the early part has been, another record for excess in temperature will be shown. In spite of the fact that August 5 rung up a high temperature of 100 degrees last year, the mean average temperature for

Lindy And Wife Make Flight To Point Barrow

(International News Service)

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 8.—For the first time since they flashed over the border in eastern Canada on the initial day of their flight to the Orient, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were back on American soil today after flying over the wilderness of northern Canada.

The famous couple arrived here at 2:00 a. m., today (Pacific Standard Time) after a 536-mile aerial journey from Aklavik, N. W. T., where they were delayed three days and two nights by inclement weather.

Bad Flying Conditions.

The flight from Aklavik to Point Barrow took 6 hours and 30 minutes. It was slower than anticipated because of bad flying condition. About three hours after they left Aklavik, Col. Lindbergh reported that a low fog was encountered and hours later a radio message was flashed from the plane that they had just come out of the fog and were trying to determine their position.

Once out of the fog, Col. Lindbergh, like a homing pigeon, headed his monoplane toward this tiny village of the Arctic and soon swooped down to receive a noisy acclaim from the white residents and the natives, many of whom were apprehensive when no word had been received from the plane for hours.

Dr. Henry L. Griest, doctor and missionary at Point Barrow, and his wife were the first to greet Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh when they clambered from the plane after the hazardous flight from Aklavik. The crews of trading vessels were also on hand to welcome the famous couple when they set foot again on American territory.

CRAMER CONTINUES FLIGHT AFTER BEING DOWN AT SEA

(International News Service)

WICK, Scotland, Aug. 8—The first trans-Atlantic flyer to be forced down at sea and then reascend to continue his journey, Parker Cramer, landed safely at an undesignated point in the Faroe Islands at 11:20 p. m. last night (9:30 p. m. E. D. T.) according to a message picked up today by the naval wireless station here.

The message came from Thorshavn, on the Faroe Island of Stromo, and it was considered probable that the plane had landed at that town, the most important in the islands.

Flying on a secret journey from Detroit to Copenhagen via the Danish Islands of the North Atlantic, Cramer, with Oliver Pacquette, radio operator, left Reykjavik, Iceland, for the Faroes, a distance over the water of about 500 miles, at 2:11 p. m. yesterday. He had flown to the Iceland capital across the Denmark Straits from Angmagsalik, Greenland, the night before, in a monoplane using crude oil for fuel instead of gasoline.

Cramer left Detroit July 28 to mark out an air mail route for an American company. Only the back-

Moratorium On Foreign Debts By Hungarians

Economic-Financial Crisis In Hungary Comes To Head With Decree Today

ALL FOREIGN DEBTS AFFECTED

Jail Sentence And Fine For All Persons Sending Or Taking Money From Country

By GEORGE BALINT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BUDAPEST, Aug. 8.—The long threatening economic-financial crisis in Hungary came suddenly to a head today when the Hungarian government issued a decree announcing a moratorium on all foreign debts.

The decree prohibits the exportation of Hungarian or foreign money, gold or jewelry, and forbids the purchase of foreign exchange or the incurring of foreign obligations.

Persons attempting to send or take money or valuables from the country are threatened with a jail sentence and monetary fine. The minimum is placed at two months.

The government issued an official statement calling upon the people to maintain calm and to increase their deposits in Hungarian banks as a means of keeping liquid the credit situation at home and abroad.

Plan Forced Loan.

As a further means for tiding the government over the financial crisis it was understood the government was planning a forced loan from the Hungarian people by levying a single-payment property tax to net the government $35,000,000.

The declaration of a moratorium at this time came as a surprise, as premier Blethlen announced only a week or ten days ago that Hungary had been granted a loan of 7,000,000 pounds (approximately $33,950,000)

Christen Akron This Afternoon

Ceremonies attendant upon the christening of the U. S. S. Akron, this afternoon at Akron, Ohio, include inflating the cells with helium, stationing the ground crew on the handling lines, and releasing the giant ship from the supports on which it was built, allowing it to rise a few feet into the air, being 'air born" which is analogous to the launching of a surface ship. The climax to the dedication of the great dirigible, however, comes when Mrs. Herbert Hoover, releases a flock of pigeons from within the ship as part of the christening service. Photos show Mrs. Hoover the Akron's skipper, Commander Charles E. Rosendahl (lower right and Dr. Karl Arnstein, (lower left), the German engineer who built the ship. They visited some of the big cattle ranches. That and that hula stuff would hit me better than trying to stand on my head on a board.

Say, my old friend, Jim Reed of Missouri, and Jim generally knows what he is talking about, says the government is in the bootlegging business. Lord, as far behind as the treasury is now, they got to get into something that pays.

Our governor of Cal. wants everybody to take a six-day vacation. That won't affect over 10 per cent of our people.

Passengers And Crew Rescued

All Aboard Munson Liner That Struck Rocks Are Saved

By CARLOS A. GALVAO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 8.—Eighty-seven passengers and all members of the crew of the Munson Liner Western World were rescued and taken on board the German Steamship General Ozorio today a few hours after the American ship had crashed her nose onto the dangerous rocks of Ponta Do Boi near Santos.

Fighting high winds and heavy seas, and hampered by blinding rain squalls which at times all but obscured their vision, the officers and crew of the General Ozorio raced to the side of the stricken vessel and quickly went about the difficult task of transferring to their own ship all passengers and members of the Western World's crew.

The general Ozorio wirelessed that the transfer had been safely accomplished at about 11 a. m. (10 a. m. eastern daylight time) and that she was starting for Rio De Janeiro immediately, expecting to reach here tonight.

The corn is parched and the spuds are dry, and the lawn is a saddle hue, and every day sees a cloudless sky, with a bronze sun against the blue. And now and then there's a darkened spot, it's gone and it's back again, and ever the cry of the farmer lad, gosh but we do need rain. The roads are dust to the hub almost, and the springs are a weekly stream, and the cows are looking for long lush grass, to give us our morning cream, and always the cry of the man in the street, for the heat seems to burn his brain, he looks at the sky and says as he mops, ninety four, gosh we need some rain.

FIRE BATTLE IS LOST AFTER RESIDENTS ALL TURN FIREMEN

Union township was the scene of a battle early this morning between citizens who turned volunteer firemen and flames that were rapidly consuming the two-story frame barn of S. A. Mayberry on the Mahoning road.

Someone called central fire station at 2:30 a. m. today telling that there was a fire at the Mayberry barn, but before local firemen could get more data on the fire outside the city limits, hung up. Since no more calls were received the department did not respond.

John Plano of the Mahoning road, a neighbor of Mayberry, discovered the fire after driving his car inside a garage nearby. He called to Mayberry. Other neighbors soon gather up the Mayberry garden hose and immediately set to work to put out the fire themselves. Some filled buckets with water and joined in the battle with the blaze.

Mrs. Mayberry, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hammond, Jim Hannon and Steve Plano aided Mr. Mayberry, who said that the barn contained carpenter's tools valued at $300.

According to the men and women the garden hose had "good pressure" but the fire proved to much for them. For one thing, the firefighters did not get near enough due to the intense heat. Then again, the flames from the barn had shot out to a telephone pole and melted a long stretch of lead cable so that drops of lead dripped to the ground, and made women scurry for shelter.

Handicapped by lack of fire fighting material, the residents sadly watched the barn leveled to the ground. This morning the structure had burned to the foundation. Only charred wood remained about the fire scene. Telephone trouble shooters were repairing the cable.

Mayberry said the loss would be about $1,000. The barn was insured for $500.

Mrs. Mayberry told a reporter that she believed the fire was started by a lighted cigarette carelessly thrown into the barn by one of two boys she had seen passing by a short time before the fire.

Communist Killed By Police Today In Berlin Riot

Two Seriously Injured And Several Less Seriously Hurt In Pitched Battle

ATMOSPHERE TENSE IN PRUSSIA TODAY

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—At least one Communist was killed, two were seriously wounded and a number of others were less seriously injured today in an outbreak of fighting between Communists and police at Alexanderplatz, in the center of Berlin today.

Two pitched battles were fought by the police and rioters in what was generally regarded as a prelude to more serious trouble growing out of the Prussian State Plebiscite to be held tomorrow to determine whether the Prussian Diet shall be dissolved and new elections called.

Tense Situation

A tense atosphere prevailed throughout Prussia, the situation having been more critical by the Prussian government's action on Thursday compelling al lnewspapers to print a government manifesto denouncing the plebiscite. This action, widely denounced as a political plunder of the first magnitude and an inexcusable dictatorial step, was believed to have made many friends for the steel helmets, a Nationalist, militarist organization, which is supporting the plebiscite move.

ers and a few others knew of the flight till Cramer suddenly descended on the Eskimo village of Angmagsalik.

On his way to the Faroes, Cramer was forced to land on the water by engine trouble. He was able to do so because his plane was an amphibian, which can descend on both land and water. Most trans-Atlantic planes have been land planes which were lost if forced down.

Cramer was forced down not far from his destination and early last night the Wick station picked up a message from his plane reading as follows:

"Forced down owing to engine trouble and would like to obtain extra bearings. Can you assist please?"

Twenty minutes later, the station received another message from an unidentified source stating:

"Aircraft, name unknown, bound from Reykjavik to Thorshavn. Unable to rise from water since 7:45 p. m."

The Faroes lie about 250 miles north of Scotland. Cramer's schedule calls for a lap from the Faroes to Bergen, Norway, but he could, by making a detour via the Shetland Islands and the Hebrides, Scotland and England, make the rest of his journey to Copenhagen with only short stretches of water intervening.

Starts For Norway.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Continuing his flight across the sub-Arctic regions, Parker Cramer, Illinois airman, left the Faroe Islands at noon today (9 a. m. E. Md. T.) for Bergen, Norway, according to an Exchange dispatch from Copenhagen.

Cramer's departure, made on schedule, indicated that the motor trouble that forced a descent upon the ocean between Iceland and the Faroes had been repaired without difficulty.

PRESIDENT'S WIFE TO CHRISTEN BIG DIRIGIBLE TODAY

upon her arrival here from Washington.

Great Day For Navy.

It was a great day for the navy, to which branch of the service the monarch of all aircraft has been assigned. Secretary of the Navy Adams is in Europe and could not attend, but it seemed that every other navy official of note was there.

Admiral W. A. Moffett, grand old man of the navy and chief of its bureau of aeronautics, who labored tirelessly for months to get official sanction for the construction of the U. S. S. Akron and a sister ship yet to be constructed, was to accompany Mrs. Hoover aboard the special train from Washington.

More than merely supremacy in lighter-than-air fighting equipment was symbolized by the event. In the U. S. S. Akron, second naval dirigible ever built in America, Zeppelin experts saw the forerunner of a fleet of as large or even larger American dirigibles to be used in regular commercial flights across the seas.

Notable Achievement.

It marked, they said, the successful completion of the first great air liner to be built through private enterprise in America.

The only other American-built dirigible, the ill-fated Shenandoah, was fabricated at the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia and assembled at the navy dock in Lakehurst, N. J.

The navy at first considered building the Akron and its projected sister ship itself, but became convinced of the desirability of an American airship building industry, just as the nation has its own ship building industry. Such industry, naval officials reasoned, would be invaluable in time of war and lead to the establishment of commercial air lines.

Consequently, it called upon private enterprises for bids and finally awarded the contract to the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, which began work on its $2,250,000 dock at once, completing it in 1929. Soon afterward the International Zeppelin Transport Company was chartered to study trans-oceanic airship travel.

Arrives In Akron
(International News Service)

Akron, O., Aug. 8.—Coming here from Washington to christen the navy's new monster airship, the U. S. S. Akron, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the president, arrived in Akron at 11:30 a. m. (E. S. T.) today. The first lady was accompanied aboard her special train by Rear Admiral and Mrs. William A. Moffett, Captain and Mrs. Russell Train, and Mrs. F. K. Butler, Mrs. Hoover's personal secretary.

Army and Navy planes zoomed overhead as Mrs. Hoover and her party stepped from the train to be greeted by the official welcoming committee, headed by P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, building of the U. S. S. Akron, and city officials.

A huge bouquet of snap dragons and roses was presented the distinguished visitors by the local chapter of the Women's Aeronautical auxiliary. She graciously acknowledged cheers of the assembled multitude as she was escorted from the Union station to a waiting automobile, to be whisked away to the Portage Country club.

Germany-Italy Agree To Trade

Germany Will Buy Fruit From Italians, In Return For Coal From Germany

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Aug. 8—The first concrete economic results from the so-called "chequers" visit of the German Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and his foreign minister, Julius Curtius to Premier Benito Mussolini and foreign minister Dino Grandi were announced today at the conclusion of the official conferences between the two groups of statesmen.

Germany has agreed to buy large amounts of Italian oranges and lemons, which are now on the inhabited list of the German foreign exchange restrictions, and Italy in return, will purchase German coal in amounts equal to the deliveries in kind called for under the reparations terms of the Young plan.

At the same time it was announced that Premier Mussolini had accepted an invitation to visit Berlin at an early date, returning the visit of Chancellor Bruening.

Correct this sentence: "I tried to make one of them," said the gold-digger, "but I got no results for they were all married men."

Word has been received here of an outstanding performance by Lee Breeze, 3 year old trotter owned by Harry Alexander of Leasure avenue. Racing against a fast field on the Warren Indiana fair ground, Lee Breeze took a heat in 2:14¼ on a half mile track doing the first half in 1:02¼ and the last quarter in 30¼ seconds.

of Areonautics of the United States Navy under whose authority the new Zeppelin has been built. Admiral Moffett did not appear on the platform, Mrs. Hoover being escorted by her naval side, Captain Russell C. Train. Others in the party were Mrs. Train, Mrs. Butler, secretary to Mrs. Hoover, a personal maid and Secret Service Operative Boatright.

Those who saw Mrs. Hoover for the first time today were impressed with the genuine sincerity in her smile and greetings. She was garbed simply in a silver gray spotted dress, which matched her silver hair.

For the moment of Number Nine this morning every precaution was taken for the safety and comfort of the president's wife. Her private car, "Maryland" was one of the new air conditioned steel palaces of the Baltimore and Ohio. Every switch was locked through the yard and special B. & O. policemen in uniform patrolled the area around the station.

Arriving in Akron this afternoon Mrs. Hoover will be taken to the Portage club for lunch. Following lunch she will go to the hangar where she will formally christen the navy Zep. Instead of breaking a bottle of champagne or ginger ale over the Zep she will release a flock of racing pigeons. She will not stay in Akron tonight but will return to Washington on the special car.

The car will be attached to Number Ten late tonight going through New Castle. The regular passenger stop will be made at the Seventh ward station but no additional time. The probabilities are that Mrs. Hoover will have retired at that time so that there will be no opportunity of seeing her tonight.

UNION LABEL

STEADILY GROWING AIR MAIL

THE air mail has outlived the first impetus of novelty to become an accepted convenience and is steadily increasing in volume, although other classes of mail have been below the pre-depression normal.

Eighteen per cent more air mail was carried during the first four months of this year than during the corresponding period of 1930, an amazing gain considering the fact that business correspondence makes up the bulk of this mail and that business was a little better last year than in the early part of this year.

The air-mail service is still the backbone of commercial aviation in America. With one or two possible exceptions, the most successful air transport systems are those that combine a mail contract with their passenger-carrying business. Mail can be carried at a profit, passengers are often carried at a loss.

Low air-mail postal rates are made possible by the fact that the postage covers only about one-half of the cost of transporting the matter mailed. The government pays the other half as an indirect subsidy, which seems essential at present to the maintenance and encouragement of commercial aviation. Withdrawal of government aid would mean the abandonment of most air lines.

THIS IS NO WAY TO HELP

A Kansas farmer took out the tailboard of his wagon and let his wheat out on the road when the buyers on the congested market offered him only 27 cents a bushel.

And an Illinois farmer set fire to 75 acres of standing oats when he was offered 11 cents a bushel for his crop—which cost 40 cents to produce.

All of which was spectacular protest, perhaps, against whatever it was they thought they were protesting.

Possibly these two farmers were financially able to throw away all this product in a peevish exhibition of their resentment over conditions, which if they did not actually help to bring about, it is a part of their business to help remedy.

As business method, however, it does not speak highly of their good sense or their appreciation of the need of good business management.

No business man would wantonly destroy the product which he could not sell at the moment, but which might be kept for a future market.

And if these men could afford now to throw away half or a third of their return on the expense of production, they certainly could afford to keep the crop in storage until there was a chance to come a little nearer breaking even in the market.

These acts of waste and destruction were spectacular and sensational, but they did not prove anything nor help the cause of the farmer in any way.

TROPICAL TRADE

America's dependence on tropical products continues to be ignored by many who persist in the ideas of commercial geography taught in the schools of a generation ago. Then the United States imported manufactured products and exported raw materials. Today our imports are primarily raw materials, of which about 25 per cent comes from the tropics.

What is true of the United States is true to a lesser degree of other nations. The entire world is becoming more and more dependent on the tropics for essential supplies of raw materials. Fortunately, the productive capacity of the tropics has hardly been tapped. About 40 per cent of the earth's surface lies within the tropics and of this less than 4 per cent is under cultivation.

America's principal interests are in the countries and islands that lie to the South of this continent and in the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies and Malaysia. From them the bulk of our imports come.

The economic importance of this trade is obvious. It is sure to grow, bringing with it increased opportunities for export. Most of the trade of the countries of Central America, together with that of Cuba, Haiti and San Domingo, is with the United States. There is no better way of assuring these producing nations prosperity and of insuring a constantly increasing supply of tropical crops for those who live in the temperate zones than by fostering the development of strong and capable governments in the tropics.

MUNICIPAL RULE

Though a halt has been called in the stampede, which prevailed ten years ago, to adopt the city manager system as a sovereign cure for all municipal ills, resort to it by a number of large cities recently should provide a more searching test of its advantages.

Popularity of the scheme indicates a breakdown of confidence in the old, cumbersome council system with checks and balances similar to those set up in state and national governments. The tendency—and it is a wise one—is to create machinery which will better centralize control and fix responsibility for its proper exercise. Perhaps with passage of time and with development of real experts in handling municipal problems for reform will grow in favor.

Experience shows that good municipal government can be had with any sort of machinery where there is an educated public opinion which insists upon having it and which will not tolerate evil administration. It may be that in some cities an entire change of the machinery of municipal government is the easiest method of creating this sentiment. Unless it comes about there is certain to be disappointment and disillusionment whatever change is made.

But it remains to be demonstrated that a city manager can eliminate politics from city administration, assure enforcement of more progressive policies or of more efficient and economical government than can be had under old municipal charters where there is an informed, alert, and interested citizenship. Where he achieves success it would seem to be due chiefly to the fact that a city which is ready to make over its scheme of government in order to improve it is in a humor to back up the effort.

A modern "go-getter" is one looking for a parking space.

Most women's ideas of a vacation are visionary, and the old man's generally goes up in smoke.

These explorers who are looking for buried cities might try their hand at finding the bottom of the stock market.

A British newspaper prints a story of a fish that winks. That isn't so unlikely, considering the nifty decorations on the beaches this year.

Why Are Men Sloppy on Sundays?
A Woman Would Like to Know
An Attempt at Answering

By MARSHALL MASLIN

"Why are men so sloppy 'round the house?"

That isn't my question . . . . I'd never think of asking it . . . . A woman who's a friend of mine is the one who wants to know why men are such messes in the home—

Why they don't shave—

Why they wear dirty blue jeans instead of clean corduroys and cream-colored shirts—

Why they let their hair fall out—

Why nine out of ten of them act as if it were more fun to be dirty than to be clean?

Perhaps I can't explain. A man would be far less likely than a woman to know the answer to such a question. We know why we do certain things, like eating when we are hungry, but we cannot be sure why beautiful food—like a salad of crisp green lettuce, cool red tomatoes and golden mayonnaise—is so much more appetizing than a limp and ugly concoction. Men know that they like to get dirty, but they may not know why they feel more comfortable in dirty clothes than in clean ones.

1. I think the thing begins in childhood, when little boys are always allowed to be dirty and little girls are supposed to keep themselves neat and pretty.

2. It starts back there in the days when mother is always telling a little boy to wash his hands and not get his "best clothes" spoiled. The boy gets the idea then, that it's an unpleasant chore to be neat and that it's fun to be sloppy. He decides that only a Mother's Boy washes his hands without being told, and that only a "sissy" enjoys being neat. That idea goes with him through life.

3. If a man works in an office during the week or has a job that demands "a good appearance," he associates neatness with his work and he likes to relax on Sunday. That relaxation means wearing what he pleases and looking as he pleases. More than one man looks back almost wistfully to those far-away days at the front, when looks didn't count and a soldier could look like a bum as long as he did his duty. "Inspection" was the biggest nuisance in a soldier's life.

4. If a man's doing work at home on Sunday, he wants clothes on which a little grease or dirt will not show.

5. Men have an idea that it's woman's place to be Beautiful and Tender, and man's place to be Capable and Strong. "Love me for myself," says he, "and not for my handsome profile."

That's all I know about it, and please don't ask me whether there's any way to cure the men of being sloppy about the house. I think there's no cure, but even if I thought there was, someone would be sure to say, "Well, why don't you start with yourself?" . . . . No, I'd rather not go into that side of the subject. It's too embarrassing.

YOUR SON AND HIS WORK.

As the father of a son you are disappointed that your son does not wish to follow in your footsteps in choosing his life work.

Youthink he shows little appreciation of the opportunities you afford him and you can't understand it.

You'd like to have him succeed you in business—in your business to which you have devoted the best years of your life and have made profitable.

You think of the struggles you made to get started, the hard labor expended to get a foothold.

It causes you much concern that your son does not grasp this opportunity to save himself the pioneer work and go farther in consequence.

But he isn't interested—isn't that enough?

If you do leave him a business and he is not happy and contented in it it is going to slip away from him and he'll be a failure.

Let your son choose his business, if possible, and he will be more successful.

Even though the going be rough at the start he will get more out of doing the thing he wants to do than he would to have you hand him a business.

Don't try to force a half-hearted effort, which it would be if distasteful to him.

You selected your life-work, didn't you?

Nation Aroused By Plague Of Devouring Grasshoppers

Several States In Middle West Engaged In Desperate Battle While Entire Country Demands Campaign To Guard Against Future Visitations

Better knowledge of the means of doing battle with the grasshopper plague which is bringing disaster to large crop areas in the middle west is demanded by Americans. Ruin for individual farmers is seen, although the cereal supply is expected to be sufficient for normal needs. The history of visitations is reviewed, and the scientists who have predicted that mankind must conquer such pests if it is to survive get a wider hearing.

"The history of this marauding pest is short but full of tragedy for the western farmers," says the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, observing that the swarms are "laying waste fields in many counties in South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan." The TOLEDO BLADE remarks: "A poet once wrote:

'Happy insect! What can be
In happiness compared to thee?
Fed with nourishment divine,
Dewy morning's gentle wine.'

A poet would. An agriculturist whose crops have been destroyed has other thoughts.' The WATERTOWN TIMES states: "Very similar was the plague of 1874. Kansas and Nebraska had good crops, but just as the wheat began to ripen the grasshoppers came. They denuded the whole area. They heaped themselves on the railroad tracks so that trains were blocked for lack of traction."

A monument to gulls in Salt Lake City is mentioned by the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, as it recalls that "the grasshoppers nearly drove the Mormons from central Utah in 1848," and that there seemed to be no hope of saving their first crop "when suddenly from the west came great flocks of sea gulls which gorged themselves on grasshoppers and the crops were saved."

"And the grasshopper is a burden, as the preacher said, in the plains states," remarks the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE. "Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota know how Egypt felt when the plague of locusts arrived. They are both praying and poisoning. The Egyptians so far as we know, could only pray. And Isis and Osiris gave them no help. Not even that famous crossword puzzle god Ra, for nothing is clearer than that the sun is the god of the grasshopper. This is getting grasshoppers and locusts mixed. What of it? Properly speaking, locusts are grasshoppers and grasshoppers locusts—all except the 17-year locust, which is neither one nor the other, but a bug."

"In the warfare of man against insect," warns the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS, "there can be neither truce nor treaty of peace. If the entomologists are right, it is upon the outcome of that conflict more than any other that survival of man his civilization depends." The MINNEAPOLIS STAR holds that "though the 'hopper ranks as No. 1 public enemy among the insects this year, entomologists are authority for the statement that four other American pests are worse marauders—the boll weevil, the boll worm, the chinch bug and the Hessian fly," and adds: "And the rank of chief nuisance to city dwellers is still held, by a large margin, by the mosquito.'

"An extremely important contribution to agriculture would be the discovery of some means of checking this plague in its early stages," advises the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE, while the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL sees the demand for "a campaign over a few years to bring [illegible]." The MANCHESTER LEADER, conceding that "it is not too much [illegible] that eventually means of preventing this wholesale invasion will be found," declares that "no means of eliminating the grasshoppers entirely have been found, although use of poison sprays and of lethal bran has proved effective." The DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT points out that "the insects are not migratory visitors. * * * They grow right where they are."

"Millions have been killed," remarks the ATLANTA JOURNAL, "and though other millions have arisen to take their places, the defenders of the crops seem to hold at present the upper hand. Unfortunately, from one standpoint, such annoying phenomena do not occur often. If the grasshoppers foregathered for such general raids frequently enough, ways of exterminating them could be devised by scientific experts. As it is, everybody has forgotten just what was done before, and experience is expensive. The weather is favoring the grasshoppers just now, but heavy rains, which are past due, will cause irreparable damage to their invasion. Meanwhile, the Iowa farmers are presenting a brave front, and all of our hats is with them. May they annihilate this pestiferous enemy for once and all!"

"The situation is bad but it has been worse. In 1874, for instance," records the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, "the United States was visited by one of the worst scourges on record. Grasshoppers made a clean sweep of more than a dozen central states." The MILWAUKEE SENTINEL states: "Losses already incurred will ruin some farmers, but there is no serious threat to the food supply. In present conditions it is inconceivable that insects can cause a serious shortage of cereal foods. Science has thwarted the insects as it has thwarted the bubonic plague. Paradoxically, as the world slowly evolves as an insect proof garden with grain crops progressively larger from year to year, people go hungry in the midst of plenty."

"Thus it goes," concludes the CHATTANOOGA TIMES. "In addition to having to resist year in and year out the increasing pressure of a rising tide of insect pests that are always besetting his crops, man must contend with increasingly frequent devastating infestations. One year it is the boll weevil; the next it is the Mediterranean fly; another it is the corn borer; then come the locust and the grasshopper. All of which gives more than a little point to the scientists' prediction of a final showdown between mankind and the insect world. But for all this, man goes right on destroying the birds, his best defense against insect enemies."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE COMING GENERATION.

He was a youngster of five. His mother had told him not to do a certain thing. He did it. He was sent to his father for correction and he went. His father asked him: "Why did you do it? Did not your mother tell you not to do it?" "Yes, daddy." "Then why did you do it?" The youngster braced himself with feet spread wide apart and with hands in small pockets and thus delivered himself: "It was a mistake, daddy, everybody makes mistakes sometime or other." Father had trouble controling his inclination to burst into laughter but was able to set his face sternly and say: "Yes, I know that everybody makes mistakes, but see to it that you do not make such a mistake again."

Another youngster of six seemed to be able to supply himself without stint with candies and lollypops at the corner store. His parents found that he was paying the storekeeper with pennies, nickles and dimes for his purchases and the truth was forced home to them that young hopeful was picking up at home all the loose change that he could find. His mother took him in hand and after the boy had frankly confirmed the family's suspicions, the mother wished to know whether the boy knew that taking money without permission was very wicked. "Yes, but mother, you know its in the blood."

There is a great deal of talk about the present generation and its tendencies, but what about the next generation, the generation to which these two youngsters belong?

So fair she seemed to be,

Just sweethearts then were we.

Later I well recall I made,
A discard of a larger spade;
A diamond she returned!
Since she had named our wedding day,
I did not criticize her play
Though inwardly I burned.

Last night she did a foolish thing:

Came right back with a crack at me:

Activities End At Scout Camp Friday

Court Of Honor Brings To Close Successful Camping Season

Youths Return To Their Homes Today Enriched By Stay At Camp

Friday, the last day at Camp John Phillips, was full of activity for Lawrence county Boy Scouts.

The morning was spent in a final effort to finish up all tests for the court of honor which was held last evening.

At 2:30 in the afternoon the entire camp took part in a water carnival. The events were arranged and run off by Al Stump as follows: 20-yard breast swim, won by Joe Ferris; 20-yard American crawl, won also by Joe Ferris; 20-yard side stroke, won by Lackie; 20-yard doggie, won by Frank Elverson; 15-yard egg and spoon race, won by Bob Duey; 15-yard candle burning race, won by Bill Lackie; Joe Ferris also won the diving events. These consisted of the plain front, swan, jackknife, front flip and the airplane dives. The 30-yard free for all swim was won by Al Stump. Bob Duey came in second. A hundred-yard boat race was run between a crew from Rotary No. 1 against the pick of the rest of the camp. The camp crew came in first by a full boat length.

Hut Mrs. Carrie Poister again won the banner Friday. This hut under the leadership of Gordon Welch has succeeded in holding the banner the entire week.

Color guards last evening were Jack Zeigler, Clair Hanna, Bob Ray and Ralph Davies with Al Stump cannoneer.

The court of honor held last evening at the camp showed the progress of the campers during the past two weeks. Many second and first class badges were awarded. The court of honor consisted of Scoutmaster Sid Smith, T. Gwyn Lewis, Brandt Muller, deputy executive of Mahoning county council; Rev. A. M. Stump, Camp Director LeRoi Norton and Scout Executive H. G. Horton.

Star badges were awarded to George Marquis, Bob Duey and life badges were awarded to Robert Harper and John Stump. Alfred Stump's Eagle badge was recommended at this court and will be awarded at the September court.

Scout Executive Horton made the invocation to the fire, at the end of which it burst into flames apparently without human aid.

At the end of the court, scout visitors from Camp Stambaugh entertained with a short but extremely interesting program.

Today the camp will break up and the campers will return to their homes with hopes of coming back next year and renewing old friendships.

Aiello-Villa Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Vitus church on Wednesday morning when Miss Jenny Aiello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Aiello of Friendship street, became the bride of Chester Villa of Ellwood City. The Rev. Fr. N. DiMita officiated with the single ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin fashioned with long full skirt and fitted bodice, and her veil of tulle was caught with clusters of orange blossoms. Sammy Aiello and Louis Meleto acted as pages. Her arm bouquet was of lillies.

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Stella attended the couple. The latter wore pink chiffon, rhinestone band was her only head dress. Eleanor Mastren lead the bridal party, and she wore a yellow maline frock. Dollie Aiello small sister of the bride, was the ring carrier and she wore a dainty outfit of green.

A delicious dinner consisting of every tasty dish so necessary to complete such an affair, was served at tables nicely appointed in the seasons tones. Covers were laid for twenty-two guests. The balance of the evening was spent informally.

Those who were present included Mr. and Mrs. Dan Heasley and son Dannie, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Titus and son Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chapman and daughter Gretchen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds, Misses Meryl and Ruth Robinson, Ralph McFarland, Kenneth Langdon, John Henley, Clayton Hoffmeister, George Shaw, Jack Pinkerton and Jimmie Williamson.

Motor Vehicle Code Changes

Digest of the amendments to the motor vehicle code as prepared by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation with which the New Castle Motor club is affiliated, continued from yesterday, follow:

Section 1105—was amended so as to vest the authority in the department of highways to remove all signs, signals or markings on state highways that do not conform with the regulation under the department of highways. This section was also amended giving the secretary of highways and local officers in their respective jurisdiction the authority to cause the removal of all colored or flashing light signs or other lights or signs so located as to interfere with traffic or to be confused with or to obstruct the view or effectiveness of official signs. traffic signals or markings.

This amendment is now in effect, etc.

Section 1107—was amended making every unauthorized sign, marker or traffic signal a public nuisance and giving the official having jurisdiction over the highway the right to remove same.

This amendment is now in effect, etc.

Section 1110—was amended that all traffic signals electrically operated erected after January 1, 1932, shall be of the three-colored system. The red lens shall be at the top or left side, the yellow lens in the center, and the green lens at the bottom or right side. Where a special green arrow is used for right or left turns, it shall be located below or to the right of the green lens.

This section was also amended that cities, boroughs and incorporated towns need not obtain the approval of the secretary of highways of this commonwealth when erecting or causing to be erected traffic signals on a state highway. Heretofore, these muncipalities had to seek the approval of the secretary of highways, but as stated above, the approval was eliminated.

This amendment is now in effect etc.

How U. S. Government Protects Your Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Tuberculosis—Prevention

In some states of the union you can see a large white car touring the highways. The name painted on it shows that it is the Mobile Laboratory of the State Board of Health. Perhaps also you will see a bottle of milk painted on it. It turns off the highway into a dairy farm, and two white-suited young physicians descend and proceed to unload their bacteriological equipment to inspect the dairy.

Such inspection, along with pasteurization of milk has nearly eliminated the occurrence of tuberculosis of the bovine type in man. Of course, it has eliminated other diseases, too, but today we are considering tuberculosis only.

A proof of the effectiveness of this work is seen in the percentage of tuberculosis of the bovine type transmitted from cattle to children in New York City before and after the adoption of the general pasteurization of the milk supply. As was pointed out in this column yesterday, tuberculosis may be of two or three strains—the human is one and another is the bovine strain in cattle, which can infect man and cause any form of the disease.

Taking a series of cases of tuberculosis of the lymph nodes in the neck (scrofula); before milk pasteurization became general it was found that 21 per cent were of the bovine type; after pasteurization only 6 per cent were of the bovine type.

In order to eliminate the menace of bovine tuberculosis other methods beside pasteurization have been adopted. The United States government in 1917 began the plan of accredited herds and the eradication of tuberculosis animals. This is done by employing the tuberculin test on all the animals in the herd, and eliminating the cattle that react positively. By 1927 thirty-nine million cattle had been tested in this way, and over a million diseased animals detected.

Meat inspection is another way of protecting the public. More than half of the carcasses are condemned on account of tuberculosis only.

Two other animals besides the cow are capable of transmitting tuberculosis to man—the hog and the hen. But this is purely theoretical. Practically both pork products and eggs are usually cooked so thoroughly before being consumed that the germs are destroyed. The cycles of nature are interesting—hogs get the disease from hens by eating infected raw eggs. The economic aspects of the situation are rather serious.

To sum it up it may be said that the hygienic measures instituted by the states and the federal government are protecting the public extremely efficiently against infection by bovine tuberculosis.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Nicknames That Annoy Should Never Be Used Says Child Psychologist

Monniker Growing Out Of Comradeship With Parents Or Playmates Is Wholesome For The Youngster

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Some nicknames grow out of comradeship. Of such a name many a child or adult is proud. Some parents who are good pals of their children address them by nicknames.

For the child who likes his nickname its use by anyone is wholesome, as a rule. But when he is annoyed by hearing it harm is done. Some children who once liked a nickname or were indifferent to it may learn suddenly to despise it.

Usually the nickname which annoys its owner most and does most harm to his personality is the name which describes some rather undesirable trait, or some trait which has been ridiculed. Such is Halfpint, Red, Skinny, Tub, and the like. Adolescent children are very sensitive to such names.

Suppose your child is made unhappy by a certain nickname. You, of course, will never use it and you will persuade the other members of the family, in the child's absence, never to address the child by the nickname, but always by his proper name. You even may so get into the confidence of his leading comrades as to win them to your practice, and they, in turn, may convert others of the suffering child's friends.

In the meantime, if you and the child are very confidential with each other you can show him how it will be to his advantage not to let other children know he is annoyed by the nickname. He, indeed, may do most to bring it into disuse, by referring to himself among his comrades by this name. They will think him such a good sport as to avoid the name eventually, perhaps.

Of course, if he can so control himself as to rise above being annoyed by any nickname, if he can so manage himself as not to let anyone know he cares what they call him, he will actually free himself from annoyance by and by. Any child who exalts himself above such nuisances has required a great deal by way of character development. If you don't think so, talk these matters over with some high school pupil or college student.

Whether our children have unwelcome nicknames or not, we want them to avoid calling other children by nicknames which annoy them. Our biggest task as parents is not to protect the feelings of our own children. Rather it is to lead our children properly to respect the feelings of other children. As children become more interested in the welfare of others, they ought to grow less easily hurt themselves.

Rev. Earl L. Holliday, noted war veteran divine will teach the Men's class Sunday morning, and a worth while session will be in store for those who attend.

1,558 Separate Pieces Of Wood In Coffee Table

J. Ford Fulkerson Completes Table Containing Wood Of "Old Ironsides"

J. Ford Fulkerson, of East Washington street, has just completed the construction of a coffee table that is a marvel of mechanical ingenuity as well as an object of historical interest. The table, which is circular and scarcely more than two feet in diameter, contains 1,558 separate pieces of inlaid wood, principally walnut and maple. Near the center of the table are some specimen of wood taken from the famous old battleship "Ironsides." This is the ship which was recently reconstructed from funds contributed by school children of the United States. Design of the inlaid sections is very pretty. Mr. Fulkerson employed his spare time for months in making the table.

Mr. Fulkerson is now at work on a companion piece in the shape of an inlaid chess and checker board and card table. The wood used is maple, cherry, walnut and Mexican mahogany. One of the four designs of a card desk, ornaments each corner, while the center, or checker board section, is surrounded by inlaid ornamental designs.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

It is certainly interesting to get the personal insight of some individual on the happenings of other days and of the people who helped make New Castle in the past. A few days ago there was an item in this column calling attention to Jere Bauman and the blue bag with which he made himself and his community famous in years past. Emma Molineaux Robinson of Edenburg R. D. No. 1, in a letter recalls more concerning Jere Bauman and what he did to help this community. We quote from her letter that it may be better understood. "It was with sadness I read in "Looking Back" in regard to Jere Bauman's Blue Bag. Forty-seven years ago I used to fill-tie-box and label the little blue bag, as for years I made my home with Baumans when the factory was at Nashua. Other products that Mr. Bauman manufactured included a "sifting blue" "Boss Blue Extracts" and ink. Mrs. Bauman was an expert at labeling and she and I used to run races to see which would finish our gross (144) first. For the one or two who worked with me 47 years ago and are still living—here is a reminder. "Stop for one minute, my friend and think, think when we used to fill black ink, then stop another minutes or two and think when we used to fill Boss Blue. And you must not forget that little rag we always called "Bauman's Blue Bag."

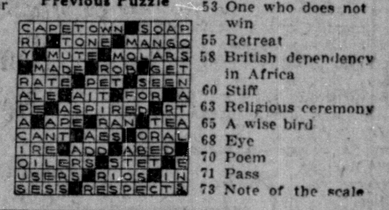
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Storm wave of moderately severe force, expected to cross continent in southern transcontinental storm path during week centering on August 6, is expected to be a heat producing storm wave but will not be expected to cause a prolonged period of hot weather. After this storm center has passed your vicinity, temperatures are expected to drop to below normal and average below normal until near 20. Precipitation will be expected to increase in western half of continent during August 6 to 20 but no heavy, general rains will be expected during this period. As severe storm wave crosses continent in central transcontinental storm path during week centering on 15, a northern cold wave will be expected to bring killing frosts to northern Prairie Provinces and severe hail storms down thru southern spring wheat belt. Storm period centering on 15 will be one of the principal hazards of this cropseason in spring wheat belt and northern corn belt. Storm wave of moderate force, expected to cross continent in northern storm path during week centering on 19, will be of little importance but will be followed by a northern cool wave that will probably cause light frosts. August 9 to 23 is expected to be a period of cool relief from the heat, humidity and drouth that have been ruling the greater port of North America this season. While I am writing this bulletin, forecasting cool weather for mid-August, Washington temperatures and humidity are almost unbearable; twelve people are reported to have been overcome by heat in this city today. According to government weather records, however, heat and drouth have not averaged as great this season as they did in 1930, which agrees with forecasts issued thru these bulletins before the season started.

Inter Planetary Force

Maxwell W. Allen, of Sanfer, Calif., in a recent A. P. article, claims that after thoro investigation he is positive that the position of the moon relative to sun and earth is responsible for the touching off of earthquakes in southern California. He says in part: "Lists of recent earthquakes on the San Jacinto fault or earthquake break in southern Calif., confirm the previously suspected fact that the pull of the moon and sun on the earth operates to determine the time of earthquakes from that source. The shocks are not caused by the pull of the moon, for they would have occurred anyway, but in far too many cases to be chance result, the San Jacinto fault earthquakes occur when the moon is in a certain part of the sky. The critical time seems to be nearly five hours after the moon has passed the meridian, and then again twelve hours later. Earthquakes occur at other times also, but in fewer numbers."

For many years these bulletins have expressed the theory that inter planetary force, coming to the earth thru the moon, causes an extremely low barometer over or near a fault in the earths crust and that an earthquake results.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

Anent Bathing Pool
New Castle, Pa.,
August 6, 1931.

Editor Of The News,
New Castle, Penna.
Dear Sir:

In several recent issues of The News, I read where someone is advocating the building of a Municipal bathing pool at the golf grounds. also, someone else wants it built in Dean Park.

As a tax payer and property owner, I wish to protest the building of a pool at this time at any location.

The School Board has two indoor pools available for the students at least eight months out of a year, and I am of the opinion that the tax payers have already provided sufficient free bathing pools.

A pool at the golf grounds would be available only to those who own autos, and one in Dean Park would be convenient for persons living in East and Central New Castle; but what about Mahoningtown, and the balance of the city?

Whoever suggested that the cost would be very small, has been greatly misinformed. I can give some figures on the cost of building and maintaining a pool that are surprisingly high.

O have sent a copy of this letter to our City Council and hope each voter who feels as I do, will get busy and make a protest also.

Truly yours,
WILLIAM SANDMAN
708 Brooklyn, Ave.

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 8.—Lawrence Hines, 26, of College Park, Md., was killed instantly Friday, and his four companions seriously hurt when the touring car in which they were riding collided with another machine at a road intersection.

Hines was thrown from the automobile and suffered a fractured skull. Donald Hines, his brother, sustained fractured left arm; Harry Hothrock, a fractured leg; Harry Funk and C. Ross Beatty, bruises. The latter three were from Bellefonte, Pa. All were removed to the Altoona hospital.

The men were enroute to Pittsburgh to drive a convoy of new automobiles to Beatty's garage at Bellefonte.

Elvin Walters, of Queen, driver of the other automobile was uninjured. He was detained by police.

Arkansas jury refused to render verdict until paid. Such doings are not unknown hereabouts, but jurors usually keep quiet about them.—The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Hugh Herndon And Clyde Pangborn, Violated Espionage Act In Flying Over Japan

NOMINAL FINES TO BE ASSESSED

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Realizing that Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, American flyers, violated the Espionage Act unintentionally in flying to Japan without a permit, but wishing to uphold the country's laws, the Japanese authorities decided today to impose nominal fines on the flyers, according to an exchange telegraph dispatch received in London from Tokyo.

The authorities were especially desirous of upholding the regulations regarding flying over fortified zones. Herndon and Pangborn not only flew over numerous such places, but admitted taking photographs at various points.

Eightieth Vets To End Session At Pittsburgh

Colorful Parade To Mark End Of 80th Division Convention Today

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—With a colorful parade for its war mothers, Pittsburgh and vicinity today pays homage to "those that stayed behind" and brings to an end the 12th annual reunion of the Eightieth Division Veterans Association after a four days session.

The parade, the first demonstration of its kind ever held, will find representatives of virtually every patriotic and Veterans' Association in the county participating. Uniforms of those who fought in three wars will comprise the vivid background for the spectacle.

Leading the procession will be the mothers and the grizzled veterans of the civil and Spanish wars.

Prior to the parade, scheduled for the afternoon, a final business session featured by the election of officers and selection of a reunion site for next year, will be held by the 80th Division. The Blueridgers turned out enmasse for their annual military ball last night.

SALARIES REDUCED But Money Ahead

In conversation a day or so ago a gentleman remarked that he has no money in any bank, but that if he had followed his "intention" a year ago he would now have a nice savings account.

He said he had paid off monthly the mortgage on his home, then intended to continue his payments in a savings account.

But he did not HAVE to pay on his mortgage and so he let his money go for other things.

He said that if his salary had been "cut" $5.00 or $10.00 per month he would yet have had

Enough to eat

Enough to wear

Enough enjoyment, and that what he should have done was to "cut" his own salary into a savings account and have an emergency fund.

"As it is now with sickness and no work, I wish I had saved as I planned."

From the above experience we suggest to everyone to begin saving now if he has not already done so, and that on all savings we pay 5% interest.

Fike Candidate For City Council

Announces Candidacy For Office At Coming Fall Primary

P. K. FIKE

To the Republican Voters of the City of New Castle, Pennsylnia:—

I have been a resident and taxpayer of the city for the past thirty-eight years, during a portion of which time I served the city as a councilman, retiring from the office on January 1, 1922.

The city is a municipal corporation and I believe it's business should be conducted along the same lines of efficiency and economy as other corporations are conducted and for the benefit of it's citizens.

The one thing of vital interest and importance to every property holder is taxes, from which source the revenue of the city is derived. These should be made as reasonable as possible, having due regard for the interest of the city. These taxes have steadily increased from the year 1922 to the present time. The taxes of 1922, on which I helped fix the millage, were reduced between 25 and 27 per cent. Since that time, a property which in 1922 was valued at $3280, on which city, poor, sinking fund and library taxes were paid in the sum of $31.16, the same property today is assessed at $6060 and taxes paid in the sum of $73.08, not including poor tax. I believe the taxes are too high. With good business management they can be reduced and, if elected to council and I can get the support of other members, we will again reduce the tax.

I am not opposed to necessary municipal improvements, but believe the same should be made at a time when the city and the citizens are in a financial condition to bear the same and that these expenditures and improvements should be made in the interest of the whole city. and that steps and means should be taken to interest outside capital in the location and advantages of the city. For this purpose, the council should be the leader.

If nominated and elected to council, I will endeavor to give the city a good sound business administration in the interest of all taxpayers

I would respectfully request your support at the coming primaries to be held on September 15th, 1931.

P. K. FIKE.

EXPERIENCE...

Has been a costly teacher to New Castle's Coal Merchants .... we have found that cash and credit do not mix in the coal business .... we have tried the noble experiment of accommodating many customers by extending a too liberal credit but it has failed!

From the standpoint of the dealer, coal merchandising must be a cash business .... we must pay cash for our coal ... cash for the freight ... cash for taxes and rentals and cash for the regular payroll of our employees. WE SIMPLY CANNOT CONTINUE TO BUY FOR CASH AND SELL FOR CREDIT.

Hence the COAL FOR CASH policy of the New Castle Coal Merchants Association—a policy which every fair minded coal customer will approve as the soundest way to do business.

Finefrock Sees New Lands On Trip To East

Local Boy Is Now On Voyage To Black Sea Ports Aboard Merchant Ship

Tells Of Interesting Sights Encountered In Many Cities Of Mediterranean

In an interesting letter to The News, F. M. Finefrock of this city, who sailed for the Mediterranean and Black Sea ports aboard the S. S. Exanthia of the American Export line in June, tells of some of the ports visited and the sights witnessed on his present trip.

He states that the ship sailed from New York on June 15 for Oran, Algeria, arriving there on June 30.

"Oran is a small French town, with a landlocked harbor, or one might say, mountain locked," he writes.

"With its old fortresses and an old castle, made over into a monastery, which sits atop a mountain peak, it is a quaint place. We went ashore in a small boat, which they called a "bum boat"—the cost was five francs, and then walked over a long causeway to the city square. The beautiful shrubbery and trees here are not what one would expect from a North African town on the edge of a great desert.

"When we got to the Plaza, it was lunch time; the stores and business houses all close for two hours at this time of the day, except the sidewalk cafes, and they eat and promenade.

"Those that do not promenade sit at the sidewalk cafes and sip their coffee or anise, a kind of liquor. The more courageous ones are those who brave the hot rays of the North African sun, which by the way, is terribly hot.

"The promenaders are mostly officers of the French Colonial troops stationed here at Oran or officers of the French Foreign Legion, stationed out in the desert a short distance.

"The streets are filled with Arab children, chasing one another about in their games. These with the older Arabs in their peculiar desert dress make an interesting picture.

"We sailed that night for Valotta on the island of Malta, and arrived there on the Fourth of July, with our ship all dressed up with flags in honor of the day. When we dropped anchor we were besieged with the town folks, all trying to sell us their wares, which included laces of all sorts (Malta being famous for its lace, fresh fruits and garden truck. As this was an American ship, they had various kinds of wines and liquors, too. (They must think America is dry.)

"It is hard to describe the scenery ashore, everything seems so old. There are old forts, old churches, old buildings of every sort. Even the goats looked old. Malta is often called the islands of goats and fever. On the opposite shore from the harbor is a short canal, just like the streets of Venice, with boats plying here and there. Everyone seems to have a boat and to be out in it all the time. Malta is an English possession.

"Next we sailed to Piraeus, Greece, the shipping port of Athens, where we stopped for three days. We hired a taxi at Athens and first saw the ancient walls connecting Piraeus with Athens. We then went to the Temple of Jupiter and the Arch of Hadrian, not far from the Temple of Jupiter, on the way to the Acropolis. The Acropolis is an old fortification, inside of which are the ruins of the prison of Socrates and the porch of Caryatides. There is an old man dressed like a monk, who is the watchman. The place closes at 8 o'clock each day.

"On the way to Salonica we passed Mt. Olympus, the home of the Olympian gods. Next we saw Salonica and the arch of Galerins and arch of Constantine.

"We also saw the mosques of San Sofia, next going to Istanbul or Constantinople, passing through the Dardanelles and past the heavily fortified hills, and old battle grounds where Lord Kitchener tried to land his forces, through the Sea of Marmora to Istanbul.

"First we saw the church of San Sofia, with its beautiful minarets and balcony on top, where the Turk high priest comes out to pray. It is a beautiful sight. I did not get ashore at Istanbul for which I was very sorry.

"From Istanbul we went on to Constanza in Rumania, which is also a very beautiful place, but is lacking in interesting sights. It is the cleanest town I have been in on the present trip. Next we went to Odun-lik in Asia Minor and loaded up with some kind of shell used in tanning leather. All we did there was to swim and fish and of course we had plenty of work.

"From here we sailed back to Volos, Greece, which is just a small shipping point for ore of some kind. All we did was to promenade up and down the pike and get a few watermelons to eat. We go from here to Bari, Italy, via the Corinth canal, where we went up hill. There are high walls on both sides, with barely room enough for the ship to pass through.

"I will write again of the sights encountered at Bari and the next places we will strike before returning."

When Your Car Needs A "Doctor"
—take it to the dealer who sells your make of car

One major reason why you should take it to your dealer is because he is vitally interested in the performance of your car. He is not anxious to run up a big repair bill as many think, for the lower he can keep your upkeep cost, the better it is for him and the better satisfied you are going to be. This dealer's mechanical department is in charge of experts who know your car from "A to Z" and their equipment includes specially designed tools and instruments to give you the best possible service.

Trust your car ONLY to the dealer who sells it. Place your car in his hands and let him assume the responsibility for its performance and see how many dollars you will be ahead in just a short time.

Keep Your Car Well Lubricated!
Inexpert lubrication is dangerous to your car as well as your pocketbook. The neglect of a single spot in oiling or greasing means added wear and strain for that spot—expensive repairs later. Get added miles and added safety—take your car to the dealer who sells that car. He knows where every single spot is located and knows just what kind of grease or oil is needed.

For BETTER Service and BETTER Lubrication take your car to the dealer who sells that car!

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—There was a time when the spectacle of couples making love on park benches and bus tops filled me with pity. It a shame that their cooings and handholdings couldn't take place on the parlor davenport, or somewhere with a little more privacy. But that was New York; so crowded that there was scarcely room enough for wooing.

Now I am not so sure but what the young people prefer it that way. An observant eye will reveal the fact that the lovey-dovey pairs invariably seek out the public places. If they choose a park bench it is one well lighted and in full view of passing crowds. If they go for a bus-ride they sit well up front, and become most demonstrative when the lorry passes the glare of store-fronts and electric lights.

Strolling, the other evening past Madison Square I noted that the tier of benches nearest Fifth Avenue was occupied by a half a dozen couples who were, quite patently, very much in love. They didn't care who knew it. A little further on were a couple of benches in the shadow. They were vacant.

And as I turned to await an uptown bus a great black limousine halted at the curb. The window shades were discreetly half-lowered. With brazen affrontery I walked over and peeked within. A young man in a top hat was sitting, chin back, in peaceful revery. On the other end of the seat was a pretty young girl monkeying studiously with the top of a pocket flask!

Rob Eden is the name signed to "$20-a-Week," latest of five best-selling novels with that tag in the past 18 months. Bob Eden is two people—Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Burkhardt. Both are ex-newspaper reporters, of Cleveland, Ohio. "I sign the contracts, she does the work," Mr. Burkhardt explained when in town the other day.

IMPOSTOR.

The most impressive employe of Saks' Fifth Avenue store is a bona fide nobleman, Prince George of Russia. Since his family came upon evil days, with the revolution and all, he has been a floorwalker and has added no little to the attraction of the store for impressionable debutantes.

The other day a gentleman, who had made purchases under the wing of the Prince and grown to like him, asked him to a party his mother was giving. The gentleman didn't even know about the title, but being a democratic and independent individual, floorwalkers were welcome in his home if he liked them.

In careless introduction, the son told his mother, "Meet Mr. George Rush." The prince bowed and let himself remain Mr. Rush.

However, he had his code of propriety. When he took his leave at the end of the evening he approached the hostess apologetically. "I'm terribly sorry," he said "but I fear I got into this house and met you under false pretenses. You see, I'm not really George Rush. My name is Prince George of Russia instead."

WITH A FAST CAMERA.

Ball park boxes are increasingly atwitter these days with footlight celebrities, mostly feminine . . . When Lyn Lary, the Yankee shortstop, copped off Mary Lawler, the music-comedy prima donna, and made her Mrs. Lary, he set up ripples of romance which spread. Mary knew So-and-So of the footlights and introduced her to Lyn; Lyn knew So-and-So of the diamond and brought him around—and in no time at all a dozen ball-player-showgirl romances were chirruping.

There is an itinerant speakeasy in the Bowery. It is a ramshackle pushcart equipped with a rusty padlock and a midget bar. The proprietor, an Italian gentleman with enormous whiskers, wears overalls and appears to be transporting a load of tools when en route from one construction gang to another.

On the wall of the publishers, Jonathan Cape and Harrison Smith, in 46th Street, there is a famed manuscript page from "The Sound and the Fury," by William Faulkner, who laboriously PRINTED every word because he was to poor to employ a typist.

So desperate has the gilded set become for new and inexpensive diversions that the latest pastime on afternoon dates is to borrow a couple of telephone directories from a restaurant proprietor and sit at a table calling out funny names to each other . . . There are still the time-tested amusements like basket-weaving and thumb-grabbing and these may be expected any day now.

Maybe people would reform more readily if they were'nt afraid of becoming like the reformer.—The San Francisco Chronicle.

THUNDER STORMS IN SUMMER TAKE PLACE OF GENERAL RAINS OF WINTER

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

In summer we do not see the vast amount of nimbus (rain) clouds in the southeast quadrant (quarter) of a cyclone that we do in winter. In summer the air coming from the southeast and south into the cyclone is much warmer than in winter and therefore will carry a much larger percentage of water vapor. Consequently in place of the usual winter numbus clouds in this quarter we see cirrus (light, feathery) clouds, while the moisture is held as an invisible gas in the atmosphere. As convection (upward currents of air) takes place, thunder clouds develop and thunder storms in summer take the place of the general cloudy rainy weather of winter.

Fitzgerald Heads Swimming Team

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 8.—After a practice session last night the Vangorder's swimming team, consisting of some of the best swimmers and divers in town, elected Hubert Fitzgerald as captain. Examiner Johnny Wilson and Fred Robuck were selected as manager and assistant manager respectively.

The dual meet with New Castle, which was scheduled for today, was postponed until Saturday, August 22, which will be held at Vangorder's Mill. This has been made necessary because most of the New Castle team will not break camp until this evening. Other scheduled meets prevent an earlier date.

A meet is scheduled with Aliquippa for Thursday evening here but the locals hope to advance the date to Tuesday evening. On Saturday, August 15, Junction Park swimming team will engage the locals in a return match here. New Castle will be here the following Saturday. Other meets are pending.

Mrs. Catherine Charles Tells Library Board Of Work Done By Institution

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 8.—The library board of this city held its regular monthly meeting Thursday evening in their rooms in the local library. The feature of the meeting was the presentation of the annual report of the librarian, Mrs. Catherine Charles, for the approval of the board. Also on this occasion the board sanctioned the purchase of a vacuum cleaner for the library.

The library has given 17 years of service to the public in which it has acquired a total circulation 89,066 volumes. There were 2,386 new books recently added. The library has gained 43 per cent in circulation over last year—30 per cent in the number of books added and 16 per cent in the number of borrowers registered. Recent conditions have caused a greater demand for books to which the local library has responded and the staff has worked admirably.

At the request of the superintendent of schools more reference work is being added. The schools and the library have been co-operating splendidly. Loans of books to teachers are more practical now. The library is also acquiring more technical books, for the use of local people.

H. P. Green, where Chief of Police C. C. Horner will make a charge against her of felonious assault and battery with intent to kill.

Mrs. Fulmore still insists that she shot her husband, but the authorities are inclined to believe that her son, Ed "Baby" Jones did the shooting. His wife, Mrs. Odessa Jones has been released to the custody of her father, Rev. S. W. Keith of Campbell, O.

Fulmore is recovering in excellent shape at the New Castle hospital, according to the police and should be able to leave that institution in a few days, as his wound is not serious.

Swimming Meet At Playgrounds

Closing Week Program To Be Started Monday At Playgrounds

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 8.—Monday evening will begin a program of events for the week that will conclude the playground season. At 6:30 p. m. on this day the annual playground swimming meet will be conducted by life-guard, Fred Robuck, for the great throngs of children from the various playgrounds. The event is always a big affair for them and attracts many visitors. A fine program is being arranged for this occasion and will include dashes, underwater contests, back and breast strokes, novelties and a relay race and fancy diving.

The Shelby Playground who has won this annual affair for a great number of years is a strong favorite to cop it again. Already their team has been lined up and has had several practice sessions. The meet will count strongly towards the playground banner to which Northside has the greatest claim as yet. Also there will be a great number of individual points scored towards the playground letters which are nicer than ever this year. They have been purchased from a company and will deserve the earnest attention of the boys and girls.

The girls swimming meet will begin at 6:30 promptly and all playgrounds are urged to have their representatives present. The boys meet will immediately follow this one.

Large Crowd At Pugilistic Show

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 8.—It is evident that the Wiley Hill boys foresee greater crowds at their weekly fight shows, as was apparent last night when nearly 1000 people witnessed the fights and wrestling show at their arena which is opposite the Locust Grove cemetery.

The boys of the community and many older people were working Friday to prepare the arena for the battle. They had erected a regular arena for the purpose and also many bleachers, which did not prove adequate for last night's crowd.

The program included several boxing and wrestling matches.

M. C. B. CLUB

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 8.—The members of the M. C. B. club motored to Grover's Inn near Harmony for their regular meeting Friday evening. Mrs. Mickley was the hostess on the occasion. Following a delicious dinner, bridge at two tables was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

Pitts Is Candidate For County Treasurer

North Beaver Township Man Candidate For Primary Nomination

WILLIAM O. PITTS

I wish to announce as a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Treasurer, subject to the decision of the Republican voters of Lawrence county at the primary elections to be held September 15th, 1931.

Graduating from the public elementary and high schools of this county, I matriculated at Westminster college and then entered upon a business career at Mt. Jackson. Important as the issue of these events may be to me, I appreciate the fact that they are of secondary value to you as citizens of this county. Let it suffice, if I say that in all my dealings and associations with the public I have tried to be fair and just. My record in this regard is open for investigation.

It is of little moment what I may say to the public but it is of paramount importance what I may do if elected to the office to which I aspire. May I then sum up my offering to you as citizens.

I have never held county office; I have never in the past and will not in the future be a party to the oppression of my fellow citizens in the mater of social, political, financial or personal burdens, imposed on account of selfish interest. These precepts of my political creed are general in their mere statement but are nevertheless acutley personal in their application to the conduct of an administrative office.

A public servant should, I believe, exercise in the administration of the office to which he is elected, the same deliberate circumspection and regard for the public convenience which every intelligent man exercises in the conduct of his own relations with the people whom he meets as neighbors, business patrons, clients or as partners in the corporate enterprise of county government. I have long been of the opinion that the county treasurers office should be kept open on Friday and Saturday evenings to accomodate those tax-payers who are unable to absent themselves from their daily labors in order to pay their taxes at other times. If elected, I promise to meet this situation by adjusting the routine of the office and establish the hours of 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. on Friday and Saturday as part of the regular schedule.

Anything, conforming with the law, that will assist the citizens in the payment of his taxes and aid the county in the collection of taxes, respecting in the first case the necessity of the individual and in the second the general welfare, will be the clear and definite objective of my incumbency if you see fit to honor me by election.

Finally, there are many men and women in Lawrence county, older as well as younger than myself, who are just as well qualified to fill the office of county treasurer. I cannot feel however, that a desire to serve in that capacity unfits me for public service. The foregoing considerations are supplementary to the general asseveration that personal honesty and a knowledge of accounting and taxation, coupled with a very earnest desire to fulfill adequately the demands upon ones time and abilities imposed by election, are fundamentals upon which my candidacy is based.

Double Service

Price Reid, who operates a gasoline service station at Wichita, Kan., is also a justice of the peace. His contribution to the innovations of the century is a "curb market for matrimony." Recently a couple drove up to Reid's place for gas, and to oblige them he tied the nuptial knot while they waited at the curb. Then he sold 'em their gas and they departed on their honeymoon. Kit Carson—24. Carson And Fremont At Great Salt Lake

THE SUMMER OF 1843 WAS DRAWING TO A CLOSE WHEN FRÉMONT'S EXPLORING PARTY DESCENDED THE WESTERN SLOPE OF THE ROCKIES INTO UTAH, WITH THE OBJECT OF SURVEYING THE REGION AROUND GREAT SALT LAKE.

THE SCARCITY OF GAME LED FRÉMONT TO DECIDE TO LEAVE MOST OF HIS MEN AND BAGGAGE ON THE WAY. WITH CARSON AND THREE OTHER MEN, HE PUSHED ON TO THE SOUTHWEST AND IN SEPTEMBER CAME TO THE SHORE OF THAT GREAT INLAND SALINE SEA.

FRÉMONT HAD BROUGHT ALONG A TINY COLLAPSIBLE BOAT,-MERELY A RAFT SUPPORTED BY TWO INFLATED CYLINDERS OF GUMMED LINEN. IN THIS FRAIL CRAFT FRÉMONT AND CARSON CROSSED THE LAKE TO A LARGE ISLAND. . . . . .

BILLY BURKE TIES FIELD COURSE RECORD HERE

National Open Champ Has 70 Here Friday; Von Elm Also Good

Burk And Von Elm Defeat George Trainor And Captain Smith 6 Up

Gallery Of 500 Witness Great Exhibition Of Championship Golf

Billy Burke, National Open Golf champion, came, saw, conquered, and nearly broke the New Castle Field Club record of 70. Burke paired with the "Blond Tiger" George Von Elm, entertained a gallery of close to 500 spectators here Friday afternoon, to one of the greatest exhibitions of golf that has ever been the good fortune of this city to "sit in on." Burke and Von Elm beat George Trainor local amateur and Captain V. Arthur Smith, Field Club pro, 6 up in the afternoon's play of 18 holes. Burke had 70, Von Elm 74, Smith 77, Trainor 79.

Burke Is True Champion

Burke, the native of Naugatuck, Conn., a Lithuanian by nationality, showed the golfers of New Castle just why he was good enough to capture the Open title. He gave an exhibition of scintillating shots that had the large gallery breathless. His drives were straight and true down the fairways. He is not a long driver, but is consistent. His iron game is what one would call excellent. His putting left nothing to be desired. He is deadly accurate. Truly a champion. A plugger. So much for Billy Burke, the 28-year old former caddy who now wears the toga emblematic of the greatest golfing honor in these United States.

George Von Elm, dubbed the "Blond Tiger," the fighter, the 31-year old former Amateur champion, the only man in golf today who holds a 36-hole victory over the Atlanta wizard, Bobby Jones. Von Elm, is deadly accurate. His drives are not as long as Burke's, but almost as straight. His iron game is unbeatable. He reminds one of a Tiger when he goes into action. Deadly earnest, and a golfer who takes his putting seriously. Von Elm came within one stroke of beating Burke for the National title. Those who saw Von Elm, the smart dressed golfer, yesterday, have the answer to a great golfing machine.

Match Very Fine

Now for the match itself. It was a great one. The locals Smith and Trainor played very good golf. They were up against two of the best in the country today. Trainor was just a little anxious. Smith was steadier. Had Trainor and Smith had as much success with their putters as the big leaguers they would have made it more interesting. Smith's putts on several occasions just barely stopped on the edge of the cup. Trainor was not the accurate putting machine that he usually is.

Von Elm had the only "eagle" of the match. An eagle is two under par for the hole. Von Elm recorded a 3 on the par 5 485-yard hole. His drive was perhaps 285. He ironed one to the green about 10-feet from the hole and sank his putt. Burke had a flock of birdies at the start of the second nine. In fact Billy had three birdies out of four holes played. He finished up with another on the 16th hole, making it four for the last nine holes. He carded a brilliant 33, four under par, and with his par round the first round had an even 70 for the 18-holes. He missed a putt by a few inches on the 18th green for a birdies 3 that would have given him a course record to carry home. Smith and Trainor found the birdies very elusive. They carded five between them. A birdie is one under par.

Like Course Very Much

Burke said following the match that he liked the Field Club Course very much. "It is just a little bit wider on the fairways, than we have been used to playing on, but the greens and fairways are in fine condition." Burke said that he thoroughly enjoyed the round.

Von Elm said, "You people have a darn fine course here. I would like to play it again. You need rain very badly. The course is somewhat burned up. The ground is hard. It is a tricky layout and treacherous to the best of golfers."

Burke continued:

"The game of golf is taking a hold everywhere. The golfing population has increased tremendously in the past few years. Why I remember when I used to caddy. If a golf club had 100 members they had a big crowd. Nowadays 500 members is but a drop in the bucket. The Municipal courses throughout the country are a great thing, they have helped to create interest in golf. Golf is a good game for anybody to play. You are never too old."

Keep Close Together

Burke and Von Elm are scheduled to play an 18-hole exhibition in Erie this afternoon. They were at Chautauqua Lake on Thursday. When they same here Friday it was the fourth match they have played since the National Open. Von Elm was leading Burke by one-stroke for the first three matches. Burke gained a four-stroke advantage by his record tying 70 here. He is now three up on his "Blond Pal." Both Burke and Von Elm have pleasing personalities. They are not "high-hat" as one would be led to believe, with all the praise that has been heaped on them.

The gruelling 72-hole playoff that won them recognition at Inverness Course at Toledo and the fine golf that they gave the New Castle people yesterday will live long in the memory of local golf addicts. Had Burke tried just a little harder he might have set a record here. The course was strange to him. That must be taken into consideration. His four under par golf was marvelous.

It Was Hot

The gallery was not hard to handle. For the most part they respected the golfers. They stayed back. They kept quiet. The New Castle Field Club members acted as marshals. It was a great day for golf. The weather was made to order. A sun that was close to boiling point several times beat down on the golfers and fans. The heat went unnoticed as the boys went about their work. The exhibition was very pleasing.

Mushball Notes

The Rose avenue mushball team topped the Carnegie Playgrounds team 15 to 9 in a game at the Carnegie playgrounds on Friday. The Rose avenue boys hit the ball hard in five of the nine innings. Craig had a pair of homers, and Ponion smashed one for a circuit.

The Rose Maries took a forfeit game from the P. & O. Electrics at Washington field last night, when the P. & O. boys failed to show up for a class B mushball league game.

Pierce & Bartsch Topple Marcellas

For the second time this week the Pierce & Bartsch mushball team topped the Marcellas. The game last night at the Radiator field was 13-11. There was a lot of heavy hitting by both teams. DeCarbo had a homer. Tex and Tip Richards led the Marcellas at bat.

Klein Hangs Up Two More Homers

Philadelphia Outfielder Has Sore Thumb, But Still Smacks Them

CARDINALS DEFEAT CUBS 8 TO 0

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Reports that Chuck Klein, the big hit and jog-around gent from Philadelphia, had injured the thumb on his batting hand and would be out of the home run chase for the rest of the year, were entirely discounted today.

Chuck made sport of some of John McGraw's pitching talent by introducing his home run Nos. 25 and 26 as the New York Giants fell apart before the Phillies, 13 to 5.

Cards Beat Cubs.

Burleigh Grimes, the St. Louis Cardinal hurler, who threatens to punch newspapermen who write unkindly of his efforts, will not have to lick anyone for a couple of days. Lord Burleigh did quite well, thank you, humbling the Chicago Cubs 8 to 0. Grimes struck out five and gave only eight spaced safeties. Good work, old Pal.

Mr. Lucas acted as though he had an elevator beneath him as he went up in the first inning of the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh tilt. He was replaced by Carroll after getting smacked for six hits and Carroll was just as bad, the Bucs chalking seven runs in the stanza. The final count was Pittsburgh 9, Cincy Reds 3. Traynor gobbled four hits.

Braves Win Game.

Urbanski put the skidskis under the Brooklyn Robins, socking a healthy double off Relief Hurler Quinn in the ninth inning to give the Boston Braves a 3 to 2 triumph. Babe Herman hastened the flock's sad end by muffing a couple of important fly balls.

Some of those advertisers who feature folks past 40 without a wrinkle, much less a pain, in the neck, probably will be seeing Urban Faber of the Chicago White Sox about posing for 'em. Maybe it will turn out Urban has been eating yeast. Anyway, he had his tomato juice yesterday, for he surmounted his 43 summers and refused to give the St. Louis Brownies more than five hits. He struck out two, did not walk a soul and had his spit-ball shrouded in considerable mystery. The result was Chicago 2 and St. Louis 0.

Faber has won six games and lost eight this season, which isn't bad considering the Sox are the Sox.

Other teams in the American League were not scheduled.

Benny Leonard May Save Game

Fight Game Dropping In Big League Circles, Leonard May Revive Sport

JIMMY McLARNIN FIRST OPPONENT

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Boxing, which took a further dive toward the land of the bow-wows as the result of the sorry bout between Maxie Rosenbloom and Jimmy Slattery in Brooklyn on Wednesday night, has gained a new lease on life since the announcement that Benny Leonard, retired undefeated lightweight champion, will soon attempt a comeback.

Speculation as to the ability of the former master boxer to defeat the present day crop of fighters after a six years' layoff, is the chief topic of conversation on cauliflower alley today.

Wants McLarnin

Since Leonard has intimated he will seek a bout with Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver terror's bout with Billy Petrolle at Yankee stadium a week from Thursday has assumed added importance. McLarnin, who starts training for this scrap today at Massapequa, L. I., correctly estimates that he and Benneh could draw the biggest gate of the year. There is a chance that Madison Square Garden will stage the match at one of the New York ball parks next month. If Leonard displays anything like his old skill in his first start at Chicago.

"Benny will do much to revive interest in boxing and his coming back means a lot to me," said McLarnin today. "I hope Benny will give me a chance this year, but if he feels that he may need three or four bouts first, that's all right with me."

Greenville Girl Drowns In Lake

Group Of Young Girls Meet Danger As The Waves Lash The Shores Of Lake Erie

Miss Martha Wai\, aged 14, of Greenville, who was summering with her parents at the Madison Golf Lakelands, east of Painesville, Ohio, met death in the waves at the beach on Lake Erie, Friday.

The same wave that caught Miss Waide also engulfed three other girls, but they were brought in by Henry Phillips and his brother, Howard, and landed safely on the shore.

Coast guards attempted to revive the Waide girl after the body had been washed ashore, but their efforts were in vain.

Scarazzos Defeat Hillsville 5 To 4

Lawrence County League Leaders Annex Victory Over Hillsville Friday

Another victory was added to the Scarazzos victory belt last night, by defeating Hillsville in a County League engagement, on Centennial Field, by the score of 5 to 4. "Fiz" Rodenbaugh allowed 5 hits, issued one free ticket and fanned nine.

With two out, Palus and "Gabby" Calipetri on the bags, Carl Gennock connected with one of Thomas's offerings for a triple that cleaned the bases in the second inning. Mike Orlando hoisted a high fly to deep middle, where Joe Lataino raced to snatch it out of the air, which ended the Scarazzo short rally that meant victory in the end.

Hillsville scored two runs in the fifth inning on three hits and a wild throw. Freddy Sanders was responsible for the two runs with a single.

Gerald Earl connected for a four base hit in the first inning with the bags empty. Johnny Grinnen knocked one of Thomas's pitches for a double and later scored on Picarro's single. P. Conti was the only Hill-towners to get an extra base hit.

Carl Gennock hit safely in three times out of four trips to the plate. A triple and two singles were placed on the score book. In three games played, Gennock has poled-out a homer, two triples and four singles.

"Fiz" Rodenbaugh was never in danger of losing the ball game. In the fifth inning, Manager Alec Black ordered Shield and Coates to warm up, thinking that "Old Fiz" was out, but, "Rittenhouse" Rodenbaugh came through by letting Swyleck popout to Calipetri, Conti flied out to Grinnen and Freidoff went-out, Picarro to Palus. After that storm, four Hillsville batters struck out in easy fashion, while the others were tossed-out on infield plays.

Tilden, Burke, et al

"William" his parents tag him,
But "Billy" slays the gals;
"Willy" is sure to rag him
Just "W" suits his pals.
Any name he's just the same:
"Wilhelm," "Guilliame" or "Will"
In all sports, he's got the fame,
He fills, it seems, the "Bill."

You can't keep a good William down.

They get in your hair, in your soup, annoy you over the radio, from the screen, stage or United States Senate, but, most often of all, they throng sport page headlines.

William Doeg. Billy, for short. The next world star of the tennis courts, some rashly predict. Anyway he's the kid brother of the current nation net champ, and, in his own right, has won, this season, the New York state junior singles and doubles title.

We'll hear more about this William. Plenty more, perhaps. Anyway, he comes at an opportune time, when the amateur tennis picture was threatened for the first time in several decades of being without a William of the first rank.

First there was William Larned. Then Little Bill Johnston. Then came the great William T. Tilden. Now—who knows—William Doeg.

Tennis is not alone in boasting of star Williams.

Williams have dominated and dominate most every other sport.

Who's the national open golf champion? Right! Billy Burke!

And in boxing—the greatest battler of the generation, William Harrison (Jack to you) Dempsey.

Wild Bil Merlhorn, Willie Hunter, Willie McFarlane, Willie Klein—a few more top notch linksmen.

And Billy Papke, Mysterious Billy Smith, Willie Ritchie, Billy Murphy are other world rings champs of another day.

In baseball Bill McCarthy is do a neat job of bossing the Yankees while two clubs which are the surprises of their leagues, the Boston Braves and St. Louis Browns, are piloted by a couple of Bills, McKechnie and Killifer.

Ben Chapman's first name is really William. Then there's Bill Dickey, Bill Hargrave, Willie Kamm, Bill Terry, Bill Regan, Bill Hallahan, Bill Walker and Bill Sherdell among the big leaguers.

Coaches Navy Bill Ingram, Bill Alexander, William (Lone Star) Dietz, Bill Roper (now an ex) and Bill Spaulding will do for out football exhibit.

In billiards there is Willie Hoppe. In track sports, Willie Ritola. And so on in basketball, polo and all other sports.

George Von Elm says he knows but two really amateur golfers which will be news to the millions of duffers out in the rough tearing up costly clubs. All they think they're getting out of the game is headaches—and they're right.

New York fighters are adopting the names of sport writers, which gives you a rough idea of how far the ring sport has fallen.

* * *

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig are the beginning and end of the current Yankee "murderer's row" of star sluggers. But there's no middle!

GOLF for GIRLS
by GLENNA COLLETT

Women's National Golf Champion. Written for Central Press and The New Castle News.

NUMBER 12

The so-called chip shot was a very hard one for me to master when I was first learning the game.

Glenna Collett

I found it was often apt not to come off.

Finally, an expert golfer taught me the trick. He said I was playing the ball too far forward.

This star teacher cited Jerry Travers as an exponent of the chip shot. Travers was well nigh perfect with this shot. He played the ball on a line off his right foot—not off his left.

However, for the unskilled player a position midway between the heels is considered much safer than farther front, toward the advanced foot.

The chip is largely a wrist shot. Remember that. But it's a matter of firm wrists, not loose, flabby ones.

The shot to be right must be made with a smooth backswing and a smooth forward stroke. Don't jab or stab at the ball.

In our next golf chat I shall tell you something about how to exercise for your game, how you may apply physical culture in such a manner to improve your golf.

Gabby Street Signs Cardinal Contract

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8—Gabby Street who has led the St. Louis Cardinals to one national league pennant and this year is again showing them the championship route, today held a new contract as manager of the team for two more years.

In announcing that Street would stay, president Sam Breadon said he was well satisfied with the manager not only because of the Cards' success, "but because Street's judgment, ability and courage have been proved day after day and week after week."

Helen Wills Moody And Betty Nuthall Fighting For Title

Wightman Cup Play Between United States And England To Be Decided Today

(International News Service)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Tennis enthusiasts arrived early today for the Wightman cup play. They feared if they were late that the series between the United States and England would be up for Uncle Sam by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, and then all the rest of the matches only in nature of exhibitions.

That Queen Helen will make it four in a row for the United States at the expense of Betty Nuthall, Britain's no. 1 star, was held a foregone conculsion. After "Bounding Betty's" surprisingly poor exhibition against Helen Jacobs yesterday, and Helen the first's splendid win over Phyllis Mudford, the odds--if anybody were willing to wager against Mrs. Moody--should be at least 50 to 1.

The two Helens--Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs--come through as expected against the little Mudford girl and Miss Nuthall, and Mrs. Lawrence Harper also turned in a fine three-set win, the United States leading England three matches to none as a consequence.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Market Today Largely Indifferent

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The stock market was largely an indifferent trading affair in characteristically dull and listless week-end activity today. Short covering was in evidence in a number of the industrial favorites and some of the rails, but as little follow-up was attracted on these bulges, most stocks settled back to around previous closings.

The weekly Mercantile reviews called attention to the fact that no immediate or large gains in distribution, although there are indications that a forward movement of some proportions are looked for in forthcoming months. A moderately better feeling was influenced by a run-up of $1 a bale in Cotton, and continued firmness in Wheat, but this failed to translate itself into buying orders.

U. S. Steel came into the speculative limelight with a gain of a point to a new high on the rally at 87, but it eased off subsequently. American Can, Bethlehem, Dupont, Radio, and a scattering of other industrials were likewise firm.

Rails were irregular, with Southern Pacific impressively strong in running up to 76¾ for a 2 point gain. Pennsylvania, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Canadian Pacific were higher for a time. On the other side of the picture, Atchison lost a point at 144; New York Central was down ½ at 71¼; Southern Railway declined fractionally to a record low at 25⅝. And New Haven dipped a point further into new low ground at 59¼.

Utilities were erratic with an initial budge in American Telephone quickly cancelled by selling.

Auburn Auto gave a flash of its old time strength in spurting 3¼ points to 134½, but it petered out in quick order.

DO-X Is Making Good Progress

Giant German Airplane Will Soon Be North Of Tropical Equator, Heat Intense

NATIVES WELCOME AIR PASENGERS

By ROBERT G. ASPINALL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MARANHAO (SAO LUIS), Brazil, Aug. 8.—As if affected, like her passengers, by the enervating tropical heat, the seaplane DO-X, taking us from Rio de Janeiro to New York, dropped behind her schedule yesterday, but her commander hoped to make up lost time today.

The next stop on our schedule was Para (Belem), not far from the mouth of the Para river and just below the Equator, but we may continue on to a further point. From this city to Para is only 300 miles.

After Para the DO-X was scheduled to fly to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, but we shall probably have to halt at some intermediate place for refueling.

Will Cross Equator

Barring accidents, we shall be far north of the Equator tonight. On shipboard passengers who make their first crossing of the center of the earth receive a ducking, but we shall have to dispense with that ritual. Perhaps we shall toast the event by drinking some of our steward's fourteen varieties of cocktails.

Union Baptist Church

A large and representative crowd assembled Friday eveping at the opening service of the tent meetings at the Union Baptist church.

The pastor, Rev. C. D. Henderson, delivered a strongly impressive sermon on "Elijah's depression and God's Cure", bringing forcible truths to the minds of his hearers.

He stressed depression as a disease of the mind that is caused by distrust and fear, saying it was a sin for Christians to talk gloomily. He stated that when there is more faith among men and women the depression will come to an end. Rest in Christ is the cure.

Services will continue in the tent throughout next week and for Monday evening the sermon subject will be "Will My Religion Do?"

The sermon was preceded by a spirited prayer and song service and remarks were made by Rev. Wright, Rev. King and Rev. Johnson. Charles Mayne served cooling drinks through the evening.

The Sunday evening service will be held in the tent.

Germans Make New Offer For Cotton

Federal Farm Board Will Get New Prosposal From German Government

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Following the United States farm board's refusal to accept its offer to buy 600,000 bales of American cotton at low prices on long-term credit, the German government has submitted another proposal embodying an increase in price, it was learned today.

Full details of the new offer were understood to have been cabled to Washington. It was not known whether they were likely to meet the objections of the farm board which declared certain phases of the earlier offer were unacceptable.

Despite reports the German government also had submitted a new offer to buy large quantities of wheat, authoritative spokesmen declared the grain situation was unchanged. An offer was said to have been made for wheat some time ago but was not accepted definitely.

Pennsylvania Largest Contributor Of Material For Big Akron Dirigible

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AKRON, O., Aug. 8.—Materials used in construction of the new Navy dirigible, U. S. S. Akron, which was launched here today, poured into Akron from almost every one of the forty-eight states, but Pennsylvania was by far the largest contributor.

Even before construction was started Pennsylvania was called upon to furnish the steel, 7,200 tons of it, for the mammoth dock or hangar, the largest in the world without interior supports and a piece of engineering scarcely less interesting than the dirigible itself.

The American Bridge Company of Pittsburgh furnished the steel for the main structure and built the dock framework. It cost the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation close to $2,250,000 to erect the dock which required eleven months to build.

With the dock completed, the first task in building the world's largest airship was to erect the metal skeleton of duralumin. Here again the Keystone state stepped in and kept a steady stream of sheet duralumin rumbling into Akron from the mills of Aluminum Company of America in Pittsburgh and the Allegheny Valley.

Duralumin was used for the skeleton because it is virtually as strong as steel but weighs only a third as much. It is an alloy of aluminum, containing about 94 per cent aluminum combined with small amounts of copper, manganese and magnesium.

Near the dock here the sheet duralumin was run through huge punch presses which formed it into girders that became the framework.

Corry, Pa., supplied nickle and steel bolts and from Bradford, Pa., came much of the oil used in the exacting tests of the eight Maybach motors. Many of the iron rivets came from New Brighton, Pa.

Eastern Pennsylvania, too, played an important part, a Bridgeport (near Norristown) firm supplying steel tubing for the propeller outriggers. Because the propellers are located 18 feet from their source of power the builders had to overcome many difficulties never before encountered.

Philadelphia supplied binding tape, electric furnace controls for heat treating equipment, exhaust pipes, the mooring and nose cone forgings, chrome, Nickel, molybdenum and rivets.

Glass for the control car under the nose came from Pittsburgh, as did the radio apparatus and much of the electrical equipment. Pittsburgh also contributed the steel rails on which the four orange-peel-shaped doors each weighing 600 tons, roll open and shut.

Most of the delicate instruments on the panel in the control car came from Pittsburgh.

Girl Revealed As Federal Dry Decoy

Buffalo Girl, 19, Used By Government Dry Agent To Trap Liquor Sellers

(International News Service)

BUFFALO, Aug. 8—Employment of a 19 year old girl as a decoy by a Federal dry agent was revealed here today following an automobile crash, in which the girl, Miss Ruth Callahan, was painfully injured.

"Believe me, I'll tell all I know about the decoy business when I'm brought into court," Miss Callahan, who was arrested after the crash when it was charged she was intoxicated, promised.

She had had, she said, four quarts of ale, three gin rickeys, nine Tom Collinses and "a few beers for chasers"—all bought and paid for with the government's money by her government agent employer.

"I was out of a job," she stated. "My mother is dependent upon me."

The agent who employed her, she said, promised her $10 for every piece of evidence that would lead to a raid. Her youth, he told her, she said, would be an "asset" since no one would suspect" her.

That her youth was a distinct "asset" to the federal agent himself in his snooping is evidenced by the fact that he was known as the best "buy-man" in this district.

Pittsburgh Worker Saved From Death As Clay Topples

Gennaro Mannella, Rescued Alive After Being Buried Under Mound Of Clay

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—Rescued after being pinned under a fall of clay for four hours while working in a sewer, Gennaro Mannella, 43, today was in the West Penn hospital where physicians said he had incurred no serious effects as a result of the experience.

As Mannella was climbing out of a man hole, a mound of yellow clay suddenly slid over him and covered his entire body until workers cleared away enough dirt to enable him to breath. A squad of firemen, policemen and workers immediately set to work to dig Mannella out from the slide and four hours later he was removed to a hospital.

Oxygen was administered him when pain developed from an injured ankle as the workers sped effort to extricate the embedded worker.

Croton Choir Presents Program Friday Evening

A splendid evening's entertainment was furnished Friday evening in the Croton Avenue Methodist Episcopal church under the auspices of the church choir.

The program took the form of a radio broadcast from station CHOIR and the announcer was H. L. Lackey and among the excellent numbers he presented were piano numbers by Kenneth Myers; readings by Bobby Richards; accordion selections by Matt Yoho and skits by those clever entertainers, Reed McCullough and William Jenkins, who were known Friday evening as "The Never Sweat Duo" and their repertoire of songs and jokes kept the audience in laughter throughout their broadcast.

The room of the church where the entertainment was held was cleverly decorated with summer flowers, which were furnished through the courtesy of Cunningham and Weingartner. Following the close of the program refreshments were served by the committee.

Miss Violet Shuler was chairman of the entertainment, Mrs. Fred Beck, decorations; Mrs. A. C. Bernard, refreshments; Mrs. Charles Eddy and Mrs. Harry Lackey the booths and Mrs. Foster McEwen, the kitchen.

Hoover Prepares For Coming Winter

President Says Situation In America This Winter Will Be Met

SURVEY NEEDS OF PEOPLE OF NATION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—American workers today had the assurance of President Hoover that the problem of the forthcoming winter, "whatever it may be, will be met." The chief executive also was prompted to point out that improvement in the unemployment situation seemed promising.

The president's statement issued yesterday as he was preparing for a week end at his Rapidan River camp, declared that during the past three weeks, he and various members of the administration had studied problems of unemployment and relief likely to confront the country during the coming winter, with an aim to perfecting an organization to meet the situation.

"The first of the facts to be determined is for the probable volume of the load of distress which will need to be provided for." The president said. "The various bureaus of the government are engaged in an exhaustive study of last winter's experience of all organizations in the average number of persons in distress and their location.

"Further examination is being made of the probable load during next winter. The economic changes during the year will materially improve certain areas, and others may be worse. These reports are not yet complete.

REYNOLDSTOWN SCHOOL PICTURE IS BEING SHOWN

Interest is being increased in the annual reunion of the Reynoldstown School Association, which will be an event of Tuesday in the W. N. Aiken school on Pearson street, by the display of the picture of the ninth grade students of that famous school taken in September 1888. In this picture, which is being displayed in the window of the Metzler store on North Mill street, are the faces of a number of persons, at least, that many will recall. Another thing of interest is the unique style of the clothing worn at that time. The picture is attracting considerable attention. Indications are that the Reynoldstown School reunion this year will attract quite a number of the former students of the school and their families.

Pershing Club Hears Address By W. S. Reynolds

Speaks On Waste In Operation Of Government Of City And County

One of the most interesting meetings that has yet been held by the Pershing club took place last evening, when the ex-service men of the city and county, gathered in the Court House to discuss political questions.

The speaker of the evening was Hon. Walter S. Reynolds, who has long been associated with political life in the city of New Castle.

Mr. Reynolds told the members of the club that the business of running a business corporation, such as the city of New Castle, which has an annual budget of almost two million dollars, is not one to be entrusted to people who are incapable.

Mr. Reynolds pointed out many economies which might be affected in the operation of the city's business, and showed how carelessly the money of the citizens is handled at times, by those entrusted with its care.

Announcement was made of a big corn roast and rally to be held next week some time, at the White farm in Shenango township, when it is hoped to bring more ex-service men into the association and to form a closer bond of fellowship among the ex-servicemen of the county.

Membership cards were given out last evening, close to thirty new names being added to the membership roll.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

One of the easiest things to discuss or cuss these days is the weather. When all other subjects fail, you can always fall back on this drouth, and this goes for colyums as well as conversations. The dragging in of the drouth into this colyum today however is not for that reason particularly, but because there is something we would like to say that really has a little value.

It is about your trees and your shrubbery. Provided you are interested enough to save them for next year, and who isn't. Unless you do take some steps to save them you are just apt to be short next spring.

First of all, this year's drouth has more far reaching consequences than last year. Last year's drouth pulled most of the moisture from the deep ground and there hasn't been enough rain this year to replace it. As a result there is a dry hardened condition that just sprinkling with water won't cure.

It can be compared to a sponge. Toss a new sponge into the water and it floats. Squeeze it and soak it, and it will absorb water into its every pore. The earth is much the same. Last year's drouth squeezed out the water and then dried the earth and this year it has been much in the position of a dry sponge.

Your trees may look fairly good this summer, but it is because they have been able to ride through one year of drouth. It is difficult to ride through two. Further, unless the trees can soak up a plentiful supply of water in the early fall, it makes it harder for them to resist the frost in the winter and this winter will see a lot of trees and shrubbery frozen out unless you want to go to some pains.

What you should do (and this is the advice of experts) is to dig holes a few feet from the butt of the tree and keep them filled with water every evening. Gallons of it, for your trees are botanical reservoirs that store up the moisture for the coming months.

Tree feeding tile is used in some cases, being tiles about five inches in diameter, and two feet deep. These not only supply water but also air. They look a little neater than a hole dug in your lawn, but are no better.

There isn't any charge for this advice and you can take it or leave it lay, but the advice of those who know is to give your trees plenty of water between now and cool weather unless in the meantime we have a flock of heavy rains.

As for your shrubbery, you can trench them and soak them for the coming cold weather. If it's a hedge, dig a trench on each side and then turn the hose into it. The cost is small for your water, and the time consumed is small, but next summer you'll find that they show the results of your care and labor.

Had a look at the aerial map of New Castle yesterday and it's quite a map. The eye of the aerial camera has recorded the city unusually clear and actually you can pick your own house. Not by the petunias in the front yard, or by the washing out on the line in the rear but every street is clearly marked, and if you find your street you can find your house.

Mission Workers Arrive From Africa

Miss Ruth Bender, daughter of William Bender of the Harbor road, and Miss Florence Brisbin, daughter of Wilbur Brisbin, Lathrop street, arrived in the city at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Norfolk, Va., where they landed from the steamer which brought them from West Africa, where they have been doing missionary work the past five years.

Miss Bender and Miss Brisbin will spend their sabbatical year with relatives and friends in New Castle. This is the second furlough they have enjoyed since taking up their pioneering work in French West Africa and the many congregations and missionary societies of the city will make many demands on the returned workers, in order that they might hear of this work first hand.
